Media is responsible to point a finger against all kinds of violation, crime, corruption, abuse and discrimination. Media investigates on behalf of people; builds up public opinion; creates atmosphere for change in decision making level. Media is called 'vigilant watch dog'. During last two decades, the role of media in focusing acid violence in public sphere was especially noteworthy. News media is publishing and broadcasting careful reports one after another on different aspects of acid violence, obstacles to combating the violence, unrelenting existence in relevant sectors etc. Media is playing a significant role not only for increasing awareness of the people, but also for drawing policy makers' attention. ASFS has launched Media Award to recognize this role of media. This year 12 journalists are nominated and 4 are awarded. We would like to congratulate all on behalf of Voice.
During last three months, ASFS has carried out consultative meeting with District Acid Control Committees of Comilla, Bogra, Sylhet, Kishoreganj and Mymensingh. These committees, lead by the District Commissioners, are responsible to control illegal use of acid, ensure proper implementation of law, provide treatment and rehabilitation support to the acid survivors and create awareness. However, the committees are not yet involved with effective implementation of these. ASFS expects active initiatives of these committees for some important agenda. For example, it is important to know the district-wise data of acid traders and users as well as number of license holders. The important issues are to identify easy strategies for ensuring proper utilization of government fund for health care and rehabilitation of the acid survivors as well as to create awareness against acid violence at grass-root level. District mobilization/gathering against acid violence organized with huge participation of men and women of all levels at the highest attack-prone Sylhet and Bogra district. There are no proper complete treatments for acid burn in the district hospitals. Lack of knowledge, capability, establishment and technology are reasons behind this. ASFS has arranged training for doctors and nurses of district hospital and Thana health center on burn treatment, especially the acid burn treatment. ASFS training team consists of burn-specialists recently organized training on this at Narshingdi district. This issue is prepared on those initiatives.

Four journalists receive ASF Media Award for best contribution in protecting acid violence

The stage was shining as the little Bably was dancing with music. Her barbaric father poured acid in her mouth at the age of only 7 months just because she was a girl! However, the iron hand of law could not even touch the accused for this cruel crime. Durjoy, a 1-month old boy is fighting for his life with acid burn. Many other children and women have lost their lives. Many more bitter incidents of acid violence have occurred in our country. Many people were vocal to prevent this, media activists were in the leading front. ASF presented Best Journalism Award for acknowledging contribution of journalists to protest acid violence on 6 June afternoon at Spectra Convention Center, Gulshan.

In 2004-2005, award was given in 4 categories of journalism, which were selected from best report, feature and photograph printed and telecasted in national dailies and TV channels. Best Journalist of each category was honored with a certificate, crest and a cheque of 30 thousand taka. This year the nominees were: for best report Nazneen Akhter (published in Janakanka), Moniruzzaman Uzzal (Samaki), Yasmim Rima (News Today); for best feature Touhidur Rahman (Prothom Alo), Afroza Nazneen (Aker Kajol), Ferdous Faisal (Prothom Alo). Munir Saha and Farzana Rupi (ATN bangle) for best television report. Mohammad Khaled Sarkar (Prothom Alo), Abir Abdullah and Syed Jakir Hossain (Daily Star), Mir Shafiqul Islam (Janakanka) were nominated for photography. The winners were: Moniruzzaman Uzzal for best report, Afroza Nazneen for best feature, for best TV report Munir Saha and Abir Abdullah for best photographic report.

Mr. Kees Bemsterboer, Honorable Ambassador of the Royal Netherlands Embassy was the Chief Guest of the program. ASF Trustee and Prevention Advisory Group Chairperson S.A.M Showket Hossain delivered introductory speech, and Executive Director of ASF Monira Rahman conveyed welcome speech. Author Selina Hossain spoke as a guest speaker on behalf of the judges. Shah Alamgir, Chief News Editor of Channel-I, and Cricketer Khaled Mahmud Sujan also spoke on the occasion.

The program became livelier through recitation of the poem Kallu by Abirity Samannoy Parishad's General Secretary Akhamulain, and Ami Sei Meby by Naia Tanannam of Kontoesheen. Both the poets illustrated a heart-breaking scenario of violence against women. The judges of the ASF Media Award were: Author Selina Hossain, Director General of Bangladesh Press Institute Dr. Rejwan Siddiqui, Professor Muntiara Mannan and head of the judges was Professor Dr. Shahidat Ali Khan, Department of Mass Communication and Journalism, The University of Dhaka.

Mahbuba Haq Kumkum, Coordinator of the Prevention Unit and news presenter Dunne Meekin Naboni facilitated the program. The program organized in association with Center for Developing Management Excellence (CDME). It was announced in the program that ASF Media Award will continue in the upcoming years too. The whole program was dedicated to the memory of ASF's Founder Trustee recently demise Nasreen Haq.

District gathering at Sirajganj

ASF's partner Sirajganj Uttarcon Mohila Shangstha (SUMS) and Panbari organized district gathering and human chain to create public opinion to protect acid violence at Sirajganj. The district gathering held at Humroba School premises presided by SUMS's Director Safina Lohani. Chief Guest of the program was Additional District Commissioner (Revenue) Prityotosh Saha, special guests were District Deputy Commissioner (Land) A. Roi Mian, President of District Lawyers' Association Advocate Adbul Kaseem; ASF official Palash Chowdhury, Additional Secretary General of Northern Federal Journalist Association Helaluddin, General Secretary of Hindu-Buddhist-Christian Yokiko Parishad Advocate Sukumar Chandra Das, Asaduddin Polou, acid victim Luna Khatun, President of District Jewelers' Association Jahangir Alam Ratan.

Speakers at the meeting said, acid violence cannot be prevented only through Dhaka or district-based discussions; massive publicity is needed in remote villages to motivate the people. Alongside, acid sellers should be more alert too. They have to be conscious about what purpose the buyer will use the acid for. Speakers urged people to become more aware to combat acid violence. 1-hour human chain was organized before the gathering at Humroba Girls' School in the morning and a nice cultural show held at the end.
District gathering at Bogra

Additional District Commissioner (Education and Development) of Bogra district Javed Ahmed said, not only the women, but also men are becoming victims of acid violence. He urged people to build up mass protest against acid violence. A meeting of District Acid Control Committee held at Kishorganj

With the aim of protesting acid violence, an open discussion was held at the conference room of Kishorganj DC Office on 29 May 2006 under the coordination of Kishorganj District Commission and ASF with assistance of BRAC. In the meeting, presided over by the District Commissioner of Kishorganj, the members of District Acid Control Committee, local civil servants/government officials at local level, lawyers, teachers, correspondents of local media and different NGO representatives contributed their valuable opinions and recommendations. The speakers said, implementation and reformation of laws is necessary to control acid crime. Also, as the speakers highlighted, a specific form approved by the Ministry of Health should exist to prepare medical certificates, which will contain details of the violence/where details of the violence can be recorded. The speakers proposed for a code number in the certificate regarding the identification of the doctor and IO as the witness.

Adding up to the ASF Prevention Advisory Group (PAG)

Promita Sengupta has joined Acid Survivors Foundation (ASF) as an active member of the Prevention Advisory Group. Ms. Promita is the Senior Adviser to the German Technical Cooperation (GTZ) in Bangladesh on promotion of legal and social empowerment of women. Her valued advice and policy guidance has strengthened the research, advocacy and prevention activities of ASF in effectively addressing the acid violence issue in the country.
An Orientation course on Identifying Acid Burn and Instant treatment

Acid Survivors Foundation and District Civil Surgeon Office jointly organized a four-day orientation course at the conference room of Narsingdi Zilla Hospital on 24 April 2006 on the immediate treatment of acid-burn. The course included detailed discussion on instant medication of acid burn, difference between acid burn and other burns, first aids etc.

On the inaugural session of the course, District Commissioner of Narsingdi Md. Firoz Salahunuddin was present as the Chief Guest, while District Police Super Mir Rezaul Alam was present as special guest. The meeting was presided over by District Civil Surgeon Md. Monsur Ali, the departmental head of Plastic Surgery of Dhaka Medical College Hospital, Prof. S.H. Khondoker, facilitated the technical session. In total, 195 doctors and nurses of the district participated in this orientation. Participants of the course expected that such orientations could reduce the extent of physical damage of the acid-burn.

Acid Victim Shamima's self-confidence has shown the path of life to many disabled women

When I want to stand straight holding all power of the earth
Suddenly my rebellious mind becomes quiet
Half of my soul searches for peace
My burnt soul teaches me to taste the new life.

These lines are written by a self-motivated woman who did not stop even after being acid-burnt. She is constantly struggling to make many disabled women self-sufficient. Her struggle started to save her soul after being burnt with acid.

In early 1996, at the age of only 14, Shamima, a student of class eight, had to marry a 35-year-old man due to family pressure. According to her family, the bridegroom's age was not a problem as he was a service holder. However, Shamima got frightened with her husband's extreme sexual desire right from the wedding night and after terrible three days; she came back to her father's house.

She was again sent to in-law's house, but yet again husband's company made her scared. Shamima's in-laws did not consider her mental condition; rather they teased her and said she might have affair. Shamima returned her husband again. Rumors were spread in her won village too. In the middle of the tag of war between the two sides, Shamima's husband threatened her of acid attack for revenge.

It was about 2 o'clock at night on 14 September 1996. Shamima was sleeping beside a window at her father's house. Suddenly her whole face burnt like fire. After hearing her shouting, neighbors rushed towards her and caught her acid thrower husband red handed from a nearby symmetry. Initially Shamima was brought to Kotchandipur Hospital for instant treatment, and then transferred to Khulna Hospital after 1-hour treatment in Jhinaidah hospital. Her face, eyes, ears, nose, shoulder and hands were burnt with acid. It became more severe for not using water. She was brought home after 7-day treatment at Khulna. As her condition was getting worse day by day, her father somehow collected 80 thousand taka to send her to India for better treatment in 1997. After her return from 1-month's treatment, she had serious infection in her body. It took much time to get well by local treatment.

Afterwards, Shamima started a new life. She got admitted in class nine and started receiving sewing training. She launched an organization named Oyikko Nari Kallyan Sangstha with 43 deprived women of her village, of whom 25 were physically disabled. They are given training for block, bulk and sewing. These activities are carried out through their own society (Somiti). Shamima, president...

Durjoy is now at ASF’s Jibonlata Hospital. His physical condition is almost the same. Artificial respiratory system is changed in every 3 days. He does not like physiotherapy at all. Still Jibonlata has to do all things he dislikes to save his life. Efforts are on to take him abroad. Sufficient money is yet to be collected for that. There is some response, but that is not enough. Time is running short. Durjoy is still waiting to get well through better treatment. We all have to come forward to save his life.
